Terms of Use/Disclaimer

§ 1  Subject

(1)  All users of the software “PyGOLD” made available in the form of open source automatically accept these general terms of use. The software is made available by downloading it from the homepage of TU Dortmund’s chair “Medizinische Chemie”, by email or in another way by the licenser.

(2)  Subject-matter of this license is the granting of a right to use to the software according to § 2 without consideration. The license is concluded by downloading the software or other receipt by licensee through the licenser. The software is targeted to access the docking software GOLD automatically. The use of the software GOLD is not subject of the license.

(3)  Technische Universität Dortmund, August-Schmidt-Straße 4, 44227 Dortmund, Germany, represented by its Rector, Univ.-Prof. Dr. Dr. h.c. Ursula Gather, performing department: Dr. Oliver Koch, Faculty of Chemistry and Chemical Biology, chair “Medizinische Chemie” is the licenser.

(4)  Every legal entity downloading the software or receiving it per email or in another way by licenser is a licensee. Thereby licensee accepts the terms of this software contract/license.

(5)  The subject of the license consists of the source code of the software.

§ 2  License, Publications by the licensee

(1)  The licenser hereby grants the licensee a non-exclusive right to use the software worldwide without consideration, to copy and modify it internally only to this purpose.

(2)  Additional rights are not granted. Especially the licensee is not entitled to grant sublicenses or to pass it to thirds parties partly or completely or to grant a right to use to third parties.

(3)  This license does not comprise further developments of the software by the licenser.

(4)  In case licensee publishes results or findings, generated by using the software, licensee shall refer to its use by citing the relevant publication (doi: 10.1093/bioinformatics/btx197) in their publications explicitly.

§ 3  Access to the software

(1)  The licenser gives access to the software by download, by email or in another way freely chosen by licenser. The licenser is not obligated to supply the licensee with a documentation or a user guide for the software or to support the licensee in the use of the software or to install the software.

(2)  The licensee bears all risks of the download and all costs and risks of the use. The licensee is responsible for the software’s availability in its institution, its installation, its conduction, its adaptation and its deletion.

(3)  Place of performance is the place of business of the licenser.

§ 4  Liability

(1)  The licenser does not represent or warrant, nor does the licenser assume any liability for the technical feasibility, technical utility, academic usability, completeness of the software and/or for damage and consequential damage caused by the software. The licenser does not ensure any characteristics of the software.

(1) The licenser does not represent and/or warrant that no third party rights exist which might prevent the use of the software or that no third party rights would be infringed by said use.

(2) Especially licenser does not represent or warrant that the access of the software and its use by the licensee is possible, continuous or without defect. The licensee uses the software as it is. The licenser shall not be liable for any possible defects of the software and/or for defects as a manufacturer might be under a theory of products liability. Licensee shall indemnify and hold licenser harmless against any third party claim relating to the software.

(4) The liability limitations are only applicable if the licenser does not cause the damage with intent or gross negligence or if the damage is not the violation of body, life and health or the licenser does not cause the damage by violation of a cardinal obligation. A cardinal obligation is an obligation that is needed for performing under this agreement and each party expects to be complied with. In case of simple / normal violation of a cardinal obligation the licenser’s liability is limited to the damage that is foreseeable and typical in the frame of this Agreement.

§ 5 Miscellaneous

(1) To the extent a provision or section of this Agreement is invalid, unenforceable, void or contains a gap, whether in whole or in part, the remaining provisions or sections of this Agreement shall remain unaffected thereby. The provision or section which is invalid, unenforceable, void, or contains a gap shall be deemed to be replaced by a provision which has the closest result that the parties were attempting to achieve by the invalid or unenforceable provision.

(2) This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the Federal Republic of Germany excluding the rules on private international law and US-Law.

(3) The business place of the licenser in Germany shall have exclusive jurisdiction for all disputes arising out or in connection with this Agreement.

(4) In case of a discrepancy between the terms of use/Disclaimer in German and in English language the German provisions have priority.